

FELINE FRIENDLY PRACTICE

Feline social structure is very different than the canine pack and so their behavioural requirements need to be understood to affectively treat any issues.

At Brookfield we are dedicated to the needs of your feline friend and our team are experienced and can assist you with any concerns that you may have.

Rabbits

Rabbits are also a very popular pet that sometimes need our help and aggression is top of the list of complaints.

If you are experiencing any behavioural problems or just need advice on your pet rabbit please contact and speak to our trained staff.

Our Behavioural service provides an empathetic approach to owners concerns and can assist in:

- * Providing pet selection information for prospective owners in choosing a pet.
- * Behavioural advice for new owners.
- * Kitten information consults and monthly checks.
- * Puppy socialisation classes and training evenings.
- * Behavioural consultations for individual clients and their pets.
- * Treatment for common behavioural problems like aggression, separation anxiety, compulsive disorders, elimination/marketing problems and phobias.
- * Informed referral to a Veterinary behaviourist or behavioural counsellor.
- * Behavioural advice for breeders.
- * Behavioural literature and information clinics

PET BEHAVIOUR

Trish Helme RVN Ncert(AnBeh)

Trish qualified at Brookfield and has 20 years of nursing expertise. She joined “Paws for Thought Dog Display Team” back in 2003 where she gained invaluable experience training her own dogs which progressed into taking puppy and adult obedience and agility classes.

Trish obtained the Nursing Certificate in Animal Behaviour in 2016 which has given her the knowledge to help treat both dog and cat behavioural problems. Trish believes in positive training methods and reward based programs.

Kelly Wilkes RVN

Kelly has recently joined the Brookfield team and has assisted her previous practice in gaining the Feline Friendly Practice Award. With Kelly’s help, Brookfield are striving to achieve this award in 2017 and Kelly is starting her Feline Friendly Nursing Certificate to help clients with their feline problems.

PUPPY SOCIALISATION AND TRAINING

Charlotte Bradley RVN and Head Nurse

Lottie runs the practice’s puppy socialisation club and puppy training class and, along with Trish, has completed “Developing Emotional Intelligence in Puppies” course with the aim of giving your puppy the best positive introduction to Brookfield.

Lottie can give invaluable advice on preventing behavioural issues along with measures on socialisation and early training of your new puppy.
